DEMOCRATS AND HOME RULERS ARE FUSING

NEGOTIATIONS TODAY LOOKING TO AN AMALGAMATION OF INTERESTS OF THOSE PARTIES

Negotiations have been in progress today between Democrats and Home Rulers looking to a fusion of those parties. The overtures of peace came from the Democratic side. At an informal meeting of Democratic leaders last evening, the situation in the county campaign was discussed and the possibility of securing the help of the Home Rulers was considered. A committee of five was appointed to confer with a similar committee from the Home Rulers to consider the terms of possible fusion. The negotiations were started this morning and it is understood that the fusion of the parties in the approaching election, has been practically accomplished. There was some talk of giving the sherrifly nomination to a Home Rule candidate and also several other offices.

The Democratic committee will report to the Democratic convention this evening at Waverley Hall. It is likely that the convention will adjourn until Saturday evening in order to permit details of the fusion to be settled.

At the informal caucus last evening the unanimous sentiment was against the party taking part in any citizen's ticket or independent movement. There was a strong sentiment in favor of making no nomination for sheriff as it was contended by some of the leaders of the party that a tacit endorsement of Brown, the Republican nominee, would be a further reiteration of the issue that the Democratic party raised at the last election. In view however of the possible fusion with the Home Rulers, it is possible that this endorsement of Brown may not be given. Many of those at the caucus favored putting up a complete ticket at the approaching election.

BROWN WILL NOT RESIGN

PROPOSES TO SERVE HIS TERM AS SHERIFF OF OAHU COUNTY IF ELECTED.

A. M. Brown will not retire from the office of County Sheriff in case of his election. "While I naturally desired to receive the Republican nomination," he said this morning, "as a vindication of my administration as high sheriff, I intended to serve as County sheriff if elected. I do not intend to resign in event of election, and I will serve out my term to the best of my ability under the county law."

will appear as counsel in defense of the act is one of some uncertainty. Lorin Andrews as attorney general is supposed to have charge of the case, but it is understood that Cooper is willing to take part provided that the form of the original submission meets with his approval.

Judge Highton stated this afternoon that while there had been a legal proceeding suggested in connection with a question which has arisen regarding road board warrants, the Supreme Court test would be the one to be pressed to a conclusion, settling the whole matter of the act's validity.

frequently was startled out of his sleep and cried out that there were devils after him. He was subject to fits, such as have been described as afflictions of Naone and became paralyzed and died soon after. The mother of the accused also had fits, it is set forth.

After reciting these statements from the evidence the question proceeds to tell of Philip Naone's early history, down to the time when he shot his wife. The question is very exhaustive in its details. It ends by calling for the conclusion of the expert as to whether the subject described is sane or insane. Several physicians who have been called by the defense will testify that they consider the man described insane. Experts for the prosecution will follow and will express the opinion that Naone is sane. The case is expected to last ten days yet.
